FAQ's

1 | Do you offer a free initial consultation?

Yes. Please contact me to schedule a complimentary 15-minute telephone consultation.

2 | Do you take insurance?

After careful consideration, I have chosen not to take insurance. For this reason, I've sought to make my rates very affordable. Insurance companies get to dictate what they see as acceptable treatment which sometimes differs from my judgment as a clinician. They also generally require a specific mental health diagnosis which may or may not be helpful.

3 | How are sessions conducted?

All sessions are currently offered via telehealth (or virtually). I do not have an in-person office space. Sessions by phone are acceptable if needed. For example, if there are technical difficulties.

4 | Are telehealth (virtual) sessions right for me?

Virtual sessions provide you the convenience of connecting with a quality counselor/coach regardless of where you live. It is also very helpful for those dealing with commuting challenges or for those who feel more comfortable opening up over video or by phone.

5 | What should I expect in the first session?

Your first session is an opportunity for you and your counselor/coach to get to one another and for you to ask any questions you may have. It is not uncommon to feel nervous or anxious. You may not even know exactly where to start. Such thoughts and feelings are completely normal and welcome! Once we get settled we will then review practice policies and your intake paperwork. By the end, we will have a plan of care to support you in your path of self-discovery.

6 | How many sessions will I need?

In general, clients who commit to weekly sessions tend to progress faster and need fewer sessions overall than clients who start at a lower frequency. However, some clients prefer every other week to allow enough time in between sessions to process and for integration as well as completion of agreed-upon exercises and action steps where appropriate. The frequency of sessions is unique to each client and can be adjusted as appropriate especially as clients achieve their goals.

7 | Is what I say confidential?

All client-counselor/coach conversations are private and confidential. When we use a video platform (e.g. Zoom, etc.) our conversations are private and confidential to the extent of those platforms' terms of service. In those rare exceptions when the safety of a client or someone else is at risk, disclosure of confidential client-counselor information takes place.

8 | Tell me about your practice.

My practice affirms the dignity, value, and inherent worth of ALL people whether we have the same beliefs or not. This flows from my belief that God created each person as male or female and that these two distinct, complementary genders together reflect the image and nature of God. As such, God desires to be in an intimate relationship with you.

My life experience and education in mental health and spirituality prepare me for this work as well as my Christian faith which is very important to me. I actively incorporate each person's faith and spirituality into their process of healing, growth, and transformation. I enjoy working with people from a variety of faiths, cultures, and backgrounds. I create a supportive space that is safe, compassionate, and non-judgmental, for those seeking to better understand themselves as relates to faith, love, and sexuality and where appropriate to support them in reconciling these areas.

9 | How do I schedule an appointment?

Leave a message that includes your name, telephone number, and the best time to reach you via the contact page or email me at support@faithloveandsexuality.com.

10 | Cancellation/Missed Appointment Policy

48-hour cancellation policy. Any changes to your scheduled appointment time given less than two full days' notice results in a charge of the full fee for the session. This is because I have limited slots available in my schedule. If you are unable to attend your session, I need enough notice to be able to release the time slot to another client or adjust the schedule accordingly. You are welcome to reschedule as needed. Sessions may be rescheduled with less than a 48-hour notice in the case of an emergency and at my discretion.
